Student Accessibility Services

Services and accommodations for students with disabilities

Student Accessibility Services (SAS) at Tri-C® provides classroom accommodations and academic and other support for students with disabilities. Services are individualized based on need and the supporting documentation provided by the student. SAS partners with faculty and staff to provide an accessible educational experience for every student.

Student Accessibility Services provides a variety of supports, including:

- Advisors for disability-related needs
- Assistive technology
- Exam accommodations
- Sign language interpreters
- Accessible media
- Referrals
- Consultation and advocacy

Tips for New Students:

- Be sure to meet with an SAS advisor to discuss your needs and possible accommodations and register with the office prior to taking your placement exams.
- Please know that the accommodations you are eligible for in college may be different from those you received in high school through your IEP/504 plan. Once you meet with an SAS advisor, your accommodations will be individualized based on your self-report, supporting documentation and history of accommodations.

Students seeking SAS services must schedule an appointment with an SAS student advisor. We encourage you to visit with an SAS advisor before the start of each semester.

Tips for All Students:

- Schedule an appointment with an SAS advisor and identify yourself as having a disability. Your disclosures are confidential.
- Provide documentation of your disability to discuss the appropriate accommodations to be made.
- Obtain your accommodation letter from SAS and meet with your instructors in private at the beginning of each semester to discuss the accommodations.
- Make appointments for exams taken in the SAS office at least three days in advance.
- Discuss any concerns regarding your accommodations privately with your instructors, and consult with your SAS advisor if you have any additional questions or concerns.
