3354:1-50-02 Knowledge management policy.

(A) Centralized knowledge sharing and collaboration practices allow the College to leverage the expertise of individuals and communities of practice. The College shall continue to develop these knowledge management practices, for the purposes of value creation, innovation, and organizational unification.

(B) The College shall collect, develop, organize, protect, and share College knowledge exchange opportunities, best practices collections, knowledge sharing communities, other useful content and information, and related taxonomies.

(C) The College shall operate information portals, community collaboration spaces, a College-wide search engine, and other technology-enhanced knowledge management tools.

(D) Knowledge management efforts shall solicit contributions from all appropriate College communities of practice, and shall evaluate, seek, and protect appropriate intellectual property rights for knowledge management resources.

(E) The President or the President’s designee is hereby directed to take all steps necessary and appropriate for the effective implementation of this policy.
