

Stephanie N. Hall, Sergeant, Campus Police and Security Services

I began my law enforcement career in 1993 with the Cleveland Division of Police as a Cleveland Police Officer where I served for over 11 years. I also served as a campus police officer with Case Western Reserve University and Cleveland State University. I have over four years of police supervisory experience. My current position is shift sergeant with Tri-C Campus Police & Security Services at Metropolitan Campus. I have over 11 years of experience as an Assistant Prosecuting Attorney for both Cuyahoga County and the City of Cleveland. In these roles, I prosecuted numerous criminal cases from arraignment through trial, examined and cross-examined witnesses, exercised prosecutorial discretion, and ensured adherence to ethical and evidentiary standards. I also argued cases before the Ohio Eighth District Court of Appeals, providing me with insight into appellate review, legal precedent, and the interpretation of constitutional and statutory law. Education: St. Thomas University School of Law, cum laude, (Miami, FL) LL.M. in Intercultural Human Rights, 2007 Cleveland-Marshall College of Law (Cleveland, OH) Juris Doctorate, 2001 University of Cincinnati (Cincinnati, OH) Bachelor of Arts, 1991. Speech Category: Law and the Judicial System

My combined experience as a law enforcement officer, supervisor, and prosecutor offers a full-spectrum understanding of the criminal justice system-from initial police contact through trial and appellate review-allowing me to speak with clarity, credibility, and practical insight on legal issues affecting practitioners, institutions, and the public. I bring a comprehensive, practice-informed perspective to discussions of law and the judicial system, shaped by extensive experience in both law enforcement and prosecution.
