

The World Today

Rebecca Abramovich

This is my digital illustration of how the world is being affected. We have been under a pandemic for what seems forever. We have learned to keep each other safe. We stayed locked down isolated from our friends and family.

People impact and change the world every day through their actions and choices. When we choose to stay protected, we protect others around us.

