

JaNice Marshall, Ed.D., is the vice president of Access and Community Connections at Tri-C. She provides senior-level leadership for grant-funded programs serving the needs of more than 27,000 youth and early college students and adults, as well as 25,000 local residents who gain access to Tri-C through innovative community programming.

Marshall serves on the boards of the Boys & Girls Clubs of Cleveland, which serves more than 9,000 K-12 students; the Boys & Girls Clubs of Northeast Ohio; and the Literacy Cooperative. She has been a national and regional board member for the North Central Region of the National Council on Black American Affairs, an affiliate of the American Association of Community Colleges. She is also an active member of the National Alliance of Community & Technical Colleges, for which she serves on the national board.