

BOYS & GIRLS CLUBS OF NORTHEAST OHIO

Jeff Scott, CEO Boys & Girls Club of Northeast Ohio

Jeff Scott joined Boys & Girls Club of Northeast Ohio in April 2020 to lead the formation of one of the largest Boys and Girls Club of America regions, combining 46 locations across four regions and two subsidiaries that will collectively help 8,500 children reach their full potential.

Jeff is a mission-driven leader with deep and diverse experience in executive roles at fortune 500, private equity, start-up and privately held businesses. Over these wide-ranging assignments, he's put a leadership style into practice that creates a long-term, sustainable impact for good by inspiring his teammates to consistently connect their beliefs to their work. Throughout Jeff's career, he has compassionately led people and teams through change with a clear vision and plan for an exciting path forward.

Jeff's experience began early in his family's 100-year-old family construction business where he learned the value of hard work and taking care of employees and customers in addition to managing the inner workings of a business. His career experience includes leadership roles at KeyBank, Q2 Software, technology startups, and a mid-market aerospace manufacturing company where he honed his expertise in strategy development and execution, mergers and acquisitions, change management, financial operations, and performance management. He also has experience in sports media and marketing, consumer packaged goods, and apparel industries as an Operating Partner and Managing Director at Camwood Capital Group and Camwood Ventures, a boutique private equity and venture capital firm with ties to Northeast Ohio

Jeff's Boys & Girls Club experience began in 2000 as a volunteer across various Clubs. Jeff also recently served on the board of Countryside Conservancy, a non-profit with a mission to connect people, food and land across Northeast Ohio.

Jeff and his wife, Jessica, were raised and are rooted in Northeast Ohio. They live in Brecksville and enjoy discovering the world through the eyes of their two young boys.
