

Where I am from where I am going

I was born in a city in Albania. I was a little girl who really wanted to play with my friends and take care of my brother. My mother always told me that you must be a good girl and learn a lot in school so I could have a successful and good future. The years passed quickly, and now I am a mother of two boys and I always tell my boys to be polite and respectful, and I hope one day when my children grow up, I want them to respect their parents how we respected our parents. Now a days it is hard to raise kids with respect.
