

Where you're from

Akemi Kuratomi

I was born here in Cleveland Ohio, but I lived in Colombia my whole life. I moved to Colombia when I was one year old and came back here in July of last year.

One of the most important things there are the culture, traditions and the great diversity of flora and fauna that exist. Colombian are great people, the people in this place transmit peace and the children happiness. There we have freedom and we need coexistence too, there people live day to day without a doubt, there we can listen to tranquility and seen union. You can smell the essence that each person has.

I remember the people and tell people that it's a beautiful place that everyone should know.
