Read carefully before completing the Honors Program Scholarship application:

- Honors Program scholarships are available only to members of the Honors Program.
- Honors Program scholarships are automatically awarded to eligible students; you do not need to apply.
- You must take a minimum of 6 credit hours in the semester to which the scholarship applies to be eligible for any scholarship, except during the summer semester, where the minimum is 3 credit hours.
- If you qualify for each, you may be awarded both the Member and Performance scholarships OR both the Member and Loyalty scholarships. However, you CANNOT be awarded all three scholarships in one semester/term.
- You must be registered for the required courses/credit hours before any award will be made.
- Your enrollment status at the end of the semester of the award will be used to verify that you have complied with scholarship eligibility. If you drop a course and that puts you below the minimum required credit hours, your scholarship will be rescinded—this will show as a negative amount in your student account and you will be responsible for paying the College that amount. Failure to do so will affect your ability to register for the following term and will have other consequences typical of a delinquent account.
- The grade point average (GPA) used to evaluate award eligibility is your official Tri-C cumulative GPA at the completion of the semester immediately prior to the semester of the award. For example, Honors Program scholarships for the spring semester are determined using the cumulative GPA after grades have been posted for the immediately prior fall semester.
- Honors Program scholarships are awarded on a semester-by-semester basis: a change in your academic status from one semester to the next can affect your eligibility for a scholarship.

8. Honors Program Scholarships are considered financial aid and as such must adhere to all federal and state guidelines for financial aid.
 - a. Total financial aid cannot exceed the student's cost of attendance. If the total financial aid award amount does exceed the cost of attendance, the student can reduce other forms of aid in order to get the entire scholarship amount, such as reducing the number of hours under work-study.
 - b. The Cost of Attendance is computed on an annual basis. Refer to the Handbook for Student Financial Assistance or contact a Financial Aid office for details.
 - c. College Credit Plus students are not eligible for Honors Program scholarships since they do not personally incur the typical cost for attendance (tuition, fees and books). However, some home-schooled CC+ students may be eligible for scholarships to cover out of pocket costs for attending Tri-C. Contact the Assistant Dean - Honors & Scholars Programs for more information.
9. Advertisement of the Honors Program scholarships is made in good faith, but the College does not guarantee any specific amount of funds will be available for these scholarships. We anticipate we will have between $35,000 and $50,000 available for Honors Scholarships each fall and spring semester. Awards will generally be made in the order that eligible members enroll in Honors classes until the award money allocated for the semester is exhausted. Therefore, you should register for Honors classes early.
10. Where length of membership in the Honors Program is a consideration, only the fall and spring semesters apply. For your first semester during which you become a member to count, we must have received your complete program application prior to October 1 for the fall semester, or prior to February 15 for the spring semester. "Complete program application" means the Honors Program Application properly filled out plus any required supporting documentation AND the letter of recommendation or essay.
11. Eligibility for Honors Program scholarships is determined by the Assistant Dean - Honors & Scholars Programs, whose decision will be final. If you believe the decision regarding your Honors Program scholarship was incorrect, you may appeal to the Assistant Dean - Honors & Scholars Programs for a review, but must do so no later than 30 days before the end of the semester/term in which the scholarship was or should have been awarded.
